

PAUL “SCOOTER” BROTHERS

Co-Owner and Director of R & D
COMP Performance Group

Paul “Scooter” Brothers is co-owner and director of R & D of COMP Performance Group, which includes Competition Cams, Inc, Quartermaster Clutches, Racing Head Service, and TCI Automotive, LLC. Brothers has served three full terms on the SEMA Board of Directors and while there took an active position as the chairman of the Technology Task Force to strengthen the industry’s position with OEM’s. He is currently the chairman of the SEMA Memorial Scholarship Committee, and is actively involved with SEMA staff dealing with the difficult issue of titling special vehicles in California. He was honored as the 2002 SEMA Person of the year and was inducted into the SEMA Hall of Fame in 2005. He was honored with the Vanguard award from the SEMA Young Executive’s Network, and the Athena award from SEMA Business Women’s Group.

His 20-year involvement in SAE has resulted in him being an active charter member of the SAE Motorsports Council. Brothers is very involved with NHRA and NASCAR and other sanctioning bodies to help insure the long term strength of the racing industry. He is on the board of directors of the National Engine Parts Manufacturers Association, a group of engine service replacement parts manufacturers. He also is very involved with several universities in helping them develop a curriculum that will properly educate students for the performance industry and regularly visits schools and universities talking to the students and trying to recruit them into the high performance automotive industry.

Brothers has been in the automotive industry all his adult life. He began at the age of 14 as a mechanic in a Rambler dealership, and then graduated to a line mechanic at a Chevrolet dealership. After a four year stint in the service, he returned to discover that the “performance bug” had bitten him and he went to work with a group at Racing Head Service. From there it just grew and he became a part of Competition Cams, and then to COMP Performance Group and all of its companies. Brothers manages the growth and new product development, and has the unique ability to envision opportunities and find a way to successfully and profitably incorporate them into the companies. He manages a team of professionals to keep the businesses strong and well positioned to get through tough times.
