

ANTHONY F. CRISTELLO

Senior Vice President
BB&T Capital Markets

Anthony F. Cristello, senior vice president, directs the automotive aftermarket research platform at BB&T Capital Markets. Cristello has been featured on various television programs discussing the aftermarket industry, including CNBC and Bloomberg television. Before rejoining BB&T Capital Markets Equity Research in 2000, Tony was an associate analyst with ABN AMRO in Chicago. Cristello is a graduate of Virginia Commonwealth University.

BB&T Capital Markets' approach to the automotive aftermarket is unique on Wall Street in that the firm views the aftermarket as does its participants – as its own fully integrated industry. BB&T Capital Markets focus on the entire automotive aftermarket channel, from manufacturers to professional installers and everyone in between, gives the firm a distinct advantage. By focusing its efforts across the entire channel, BB&T Capital Markets is able to identify trends and their effects on individual segments of the aftermarket earlier and better than other firms.

BB&T Capital Markets is the only Wall Street firm with an equity research team dedicated exclusively to the automotive aftermarket industry.

BB&T Capital Markets is the capital markets platform of BB&T Corp (NYSE: BBT). BB&T Corp., headquartered in North Carolina, is the 9th largest financial holding company in the U.S. with assets of approximately $120 billion. BB&T Capital Markets is a full service investment bank offering merger and acquisition advisory services, equity and debt underwriting, research and institutional sales and trading.

Contact: acristello@bbandtcm.com or 804-937-3269